INTRODUCTION FROM THE COMMISSIONER

I am looking for someone outstanding to join my team who can help us manage the daily challenges London poses, and who can also drive the change necessary for the Met to keep pace with this vibrant city. London is a fantastic place and I have always been incredibly proud to serve the capital. It is a diverse, growing and ever-changing city with national impact and international reach.

How the Met operates has changed significantly in recent years, achieving a step change in effectiveness, efficiency and confidence. But the scale of our ambition for the future is even greater. It has to be.

There are many challenges facing policing. I have no doubt the Met can meet them all – to transform, to exploit the opportunities of the digital age, to get the best from our people and most importantly to make London the safest it can be.

The Mayor has set out his priorities in his Police and Crime Plan – a bold and challenging agenda with a focus on priorities. My particular focus is to bear down on violence in all its forms, protecting the vulnerable and the security of our city. I want us to become even closer to our communities, building confidence and trust.

One of my central aims for the Met is that we are a modern police service, but with the best of policing's traditional values at our core. To do that we need every single part of the force to be well led, every officer and staff member to feel supported and to have the right equipment to help them serve London.

I want all our people to believe in the Met and the tangible difference they make every day across the city so that we can become even better at keeping London safe. I want the public to believe in us too and so I want us to be more transparent about what we do on their behalf.

INTRODUCTION FROM THE COMMISSIONER

Our values of courage, compassion, integrity and professionalism remain at the heart of everything we do. My commitment to you is to lead the Met in a way that respects and nurtures these very traditional values but which also puts us at the forefront of modern policing and maintains Scotland Yard's well-earned international reputation.

This information pack will give you further insight into the role, and the qualities and experience we are looking for.

I very much hope you will be inspired by this opportunity to serve with the Met.

Cressida Dick Commissioner

ABOUT THE MET

Founded by Sir Robert Peel in 1829, the Metropolitan Police Service (the Met) is one of the oldest police services in the world. From the beginning, the purpose of the Met has been to serve and protect the people of London by providing a professional police service. This remains our purpose.

Our vision is to make London the safest global city, a city in which people are free to be themselves, express themselves and flourish. We strive to earn the trust and confidence of every community and take pride in the quality of our service so that people love, respect and are proud of London's Metropolitan Police.

The Met is responsible for maintaining the peace and is accountable in law for the exercise of policing powers, and to the Mayor's Office for Policing and Crime (MOPAC) for the delivery of efficient and effective policing, management of resources and expenditure. At all times the Commissioner and her officers remain operationally independent, in the service of the public.

The Met 'New Scotland Yard' is internationally recognised for its history, law enforcement and skills in fighting crime, however a constantly changing city needs an accessible police service which reflects and understands the people it serves. It needs an effective police service equipped for the 21st century with a visible service which every day continues to earn the trust and confidence of Londoners.

Today, the Met is made up of more than 39,000 officers and staff, plus thousands of volunteers; we are one of the largest employers in London and the South East of England. The territory we serve covers 620 square miles and is home to over 8.6 million people. The Met is the UK's largest police service and has 25% of the total police budget for England and Wales.

We're proud that the Met is seen as a world leader in policing. The 'Scotland Yard' brand is known around the world as a symbol of quality investigation and traditional values of policing. Thanks to this reputation, our services are highly sought after, either through using our officers and staff in operational matters or by training others and giving them the opportunity to learn from our experiences.

LONDON: THE AMAZING GLOBAL CITY WE POLICE

London is unique: 'the world under one roof'.

Its ever-changing population is set to grow towards 9.2 million by 2020 and exceed 10 million the following decade. It is probably one of the most diverse cities in the world. The complexities of policing a city on this scale are huge. A seat of Parliamentary, Royal and Diplomatic power, London is a centre for protest, for criminality, for transport.

Londoners tend to be younger than the rest of the UK, more than three million of us were born abroad, just under half of which arrived in the UK less than 10 years ago.

London is also the world's most popular business and travel destination, receiving 31.5 million Visits in 2015, 12.9 million from the UK. It is a global city, recognised around the world, economically, politically, financially and creatively. London's greatness comes from its openness to the world, and this in turn has helped build world-renowned institutions which have preserved its safety and stability.

There are over 200 languages spoken in London, and around 40% of the population is Black or Minority Ethnic (BAME). These numbers are predicted to grow further as the city expands and develops as an international centre.

Of the six largest world faiths, almost four million Christians and one million Muslims live in London, and Buddhism, Hinduism, Judaism and Sikhism each have more than 80,000 followers in the capital.

London's population swells due to an influx of commuters during the day and tourists throughout the year - in greater volumes than anywhere else in the UK.

London is one of the safest global cities in the world already. Nevertheless, criminality within London is on a more prevalent and serious level than other cities and communities across England & Wales. Crime in the capital is often connected to organised criminality and national and international networks of offending. London has, throughout our lifetime, been a place that terrorists want to attack.

This creates a unique policing environment. Everyone joining us needs the ability to deliver outstanding policing to the communities of London.

WE HAVE A HIGHLY AMBITIOUS TRANSFORMATION AGENDA

Our transformation programme

Like many public bodies, we work with constrained resources, increasing demand and a changing environment that require us to make policing in London ever more effective. Recognising the challenges and the opportunities to improve our services, we are currently in the midst of one of the biggest transformation programmes of any public sector organisation.

Our Transformation Portfolio aims to deliver transformation right across our functions and departments, to modernise the force as a whole, and keep our resources focused on priority areas, providing an effective and efficient service to all Londoners.

In the past twelve months we have delivered:

- A more visible neighbourhood presence, with about 1,700 dedicated officers whose sole focus is to respond to the issues that matter to local communities (two police constables (PCs) as Dedicated Ward Officers (DWOs), and one Police Community Support Officer (PCSO) in all 629 London wards). These officers are tackling local priorities and anti-social behaviour, identifying people vulnerable to, or at risk of becoming involved in crime, and solving local issues.
- A strengthened local police. By regrouping a small number of boroughs to deliver core local policing functions (neighbourhoods, safeguarding, response and investigation) across borough boundaries, we can integrate and enhance our capability, and improve the safeguarding of vulnerable people with more officers dedicated to prevention. Management costs will reduce, which means we can maximise the availability of officers on the frontline. People, buildings, technology and fleet currently in one borough will be shared across a Basic Command Unit (BCU), making it easier to provide resources in line with each local area's peaks in demand. In addition, we have opened up access to a police career through direct entry superintendents, inspectors and detectives, attracting a diverse pool of applicants who may not have otherwise considered a career in policing.
- Significant enhancements to our service. Our new website offers relevant local information and prevention advice. It includes online crime reporting capability: 11 per cent of crimes are now reported online. A new Telephone and Digital Investigation Unit complements this, reducing demand on our response teams, allowing them to focus their efforts more effectively. Body Worn Video (BWV) cameras were rolled out to over 22,000 officers, more than any other police service in the world. By being the first British police service to share footage digitally with the criminal justice service, we have improved security, reduced the demand on officer time and saved £3.5 million per year in operating costs. Complaints and investigations can become more evidence-based with supporting BWV material.

- Smarter Working bringing a significant range of savings and qualitative benefits, including improved morale, officer visibility and service effectiveness and efficiency. As a result of the rollout of 30,000 tablet and mobile devices, we have the ability over time to support our officers with better applications so they spend more time visibly assisting the public and less time in our buildings; we also expect to be able to better serve the public, with our officers having access to the right information at the time when they need it.

We have a clear roadmap that sets out our transformation plans to 2020. We have reviewed our processes and capabilities, our organisational, technological and digital strengths and weaknesses; and are constantly assessing future demand and current gaps to identify where change is necessary, where investments are required, and where benefits can be realised.

We need to make further savings, whilst continuing to improve our operational effectiveness and efficiency in the face of increasing overall demand, higher expectations from the public and the added complexity of a digital age.

Technology and estate transformation are some of the key enablers of that change, but organisational culture and learning, and good information management are also vital to make it a success.

For London...

A modern, transformed and more efficient Met will Protect London by investing more of its time on the areas of greatest threat, risk and harm;

We will make every community safer through our new neighbourhood policing service and a stronger focus on safeguarding to protect the most vulnerable.

For Our People...

We will provide real time information to keep them safe and manage risk, and provide professional support so they can concentrate on their job;

We will deliver a digital service from contact to court to help meet demand, and trust in them to do their job well and have good professional judgement so their time is spent on activities that have the most impact.

Our mission is to keep London safe for everyone

To achieve this, we will:

Focus on what matters most to Londoners

Violent crime tops the public's concerns and tackling it is our top priority. This includes terrorism, knife and gun crime, sexual offending, domestic abuse and safeguarding vulnerable people from predatory behaviour.

Mobilise partners and the public

We know that safety requires action and intervention beyond the police service. We will work with partners and communities to help keep them safe and support them in preventing crime. We will work harder to earn the trust of more young people and ethnic minority communities.

Achieve the best outcomes in the pursuit of justice and in the support of victims

We have a fundamental responsibility to uphold the rule of law and to ensure that victims receive the best possible outcome. We will do this by catching offenders and by ensuring victims of crime receive both justice and the support they need from us and our partners.

As an organisation, we want to lead 21st century policing and:

Seize the opportunities of data and digital tech to become a world leader in policing

We want to harness data and use advanced technologies to our advantage in the pursuit of criminals, rising to the challenge of a fast-moving data-driven digital age. We will make information and insight more accessible internally, and externally, to support evidence-based decisions and promote public confidence. We will strive to enhance our global reputation for excellence and expertise in policing.

The following chart shows how the MPS is structured.

The Public Order and Planning Command is responsible for putting the right officer in the right place at the right time and with the right skill – policing public events, coordinating the Met's response to major incidents and preparing the capital for emergencies.

Within the Command the Emergency Preparedness and Business Continuity Unit ensure that the Met can respond effectively with other Emergency Services and Agencies to a major incident in London, whether terrorism related or a civil disaster and, regardless of the type of disruption experienced (both internally and externally,) is able to deliver its critical functions.

The Unit supports 52 departments in development of their Business Continuity Plans, managing and quality assuring in excess of 200 plans, horizon scanning for rising tide events and the testing and exercising of BC plans.

The team has a role in overseeing and continuing to fully embed the BC Programme, reporting to the Resilience Committee which acts as the steering group for the Met. The Unit is considered an expert in its field, regularly contributing to both Regional and National Business Continuity Fora, working in partnership with National Counter Terrorism Policing Headquarters and London Resilience Team.
